GESSNER TAKES COMMAND OF 114TH; BROOK

ACTING OinC OF 146TH; NEW ORDER COMING

According to an order issued Sept. 17 by the Commander of U.S. Naval Ports and Bases in France, Comdr. Edward H. Gessner, OinC of the 146th Naval Construction Battalion, has been relieved of command of the 146th, to take command of the 114th U.S. Naval Construction Battalion, effective as of that date.

Another order of the same date from the Commander of U.S. Naval Ports and Bases in France designates Lt. Comdr. E. J. Brook as Acting OinC of the 146th Seabees, and instructs him to report with his unit to Comdr. Gessner of the 114th for further orders.

In taking over command of the 114th, Comdr. Gessner will relieve Comdr. E. G. Kaltenbach, (CEC) USNR, who is being transferred.

The 114th USNCB is organized as a standard full strength construction battalion to be used for general construction jobs outside of the United States. At present the 114th is a full strength battalion, and as such is approximately double that of the 146th Battalion.

The 114th has been operating in the ETO since early August of this year, and it arrived in France the middle of August.

'INVADER' HAS ROUND-THE-WORLD CIRCULATION

"Thank you" notes to members of the 146th Battalion indicate that The Invader has reached far corners of the world. It has been read in South and Central America, Hawaii, New Guinea, Iceland, Africa, Ireland, and the Aleutians.

Lt. David Adair, USN, who has just returned to the United States from an extended tour of duty in the South Pacific,

SEABEES' WATER LINES HELP INVASION UNITS

One of the important tasks assigned to Task Force "A" of the 146th Battalion when they landed on the Normandy invasion coast in the first days of the landing operations was the problem of supplying water to the troops ashore and also to small landing craft.

A source of supply was located about two miles inland and approximately 126 feet above sea level. A reservoir had been installed there either by the French natives or the Germans who had occupied the area, but when first surveyed by Lt. Comdr. Brook and his officers, it was in a bad state of repair.

A detail of men, under the supervision of Warrant Officer J. H. Beitler, was detailed to commence work on the reservoir and pipe lines. When the reservoir had been put into shape, a 1,000-gallon storage tank for water was erected some distance away, and from that point two miles of pipe lines were laid to the beachhead area, which was to use the water supply.

The area over which this pipe was laid had not been demined, and at the time the Army could not spare men for this work - so it became necessary for the men, who were laying the pipe, to clear the area ahead as they advanced with their work.

All during the time while this work was being accomplished, the front lines were five to eight miles inland, and at night the beach received constant visits from enemy aircraft.

There were no casualties among the men who worked on this project, and in mentioning that fact, Warrant Officer Beitler said: "I guess we were just lucky all the way through."

Lt.-Comdr. Brook was officer-in-charge of Task Force "A" operations, and Warrant Officer Beitler was supervising officer of the water supply installation.

Chaplain's Corner

As the day is fast approaching when we will have gained final victory over our enemies now is as good a time as any to give some thought to the years ahead which we hope to spend at home with our families.

Many of the men in the battalion will wish to avail themselves of the opportunity offered them through the medium of the government educational plan for veterans of this war as it is outlined in the "G.I. Bill of Rights."

The following condensation of the part dealing with education may be useful in helping individuals to make a decision in that line.

"Any person who served in the active military or naval service on or after September 16, 1940, and prior to the termination of the present war, and who shall have been discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable, and whose education or training was impeded, delayed, interrupted or interfered with, and who either shall have served ninety days or more exclusive of any period he was assigned for a course of education or training under the Army Specialized Training Program or the Navy College Training Program.....such a person falls within the scope of the act."

Such persons can choose their own course in any approved college whether in their own state or not.

Eligible persons are assured of one year of education. They may obtain as many additional years of training as they have given to the service, but not to exceed more than four years.

Such applicants found eligible for this program will receive $50.00 a month if they are single and $75.00 a month if they have dependents. Out of this they are to take care of their board and lodging. The government will pay tuition, books, fees and medical costs, not however to exceed $500 a year.

Application for admission to college should be made through the applicants' home state Veterans Bureau.

A recent issue of the American Legion magazine quotes the following poster, hung up in the mess hall of the United States soldiers stationed on Guadalcanal, and signed by a chief of the Polynesian tribe that inhabits the island:

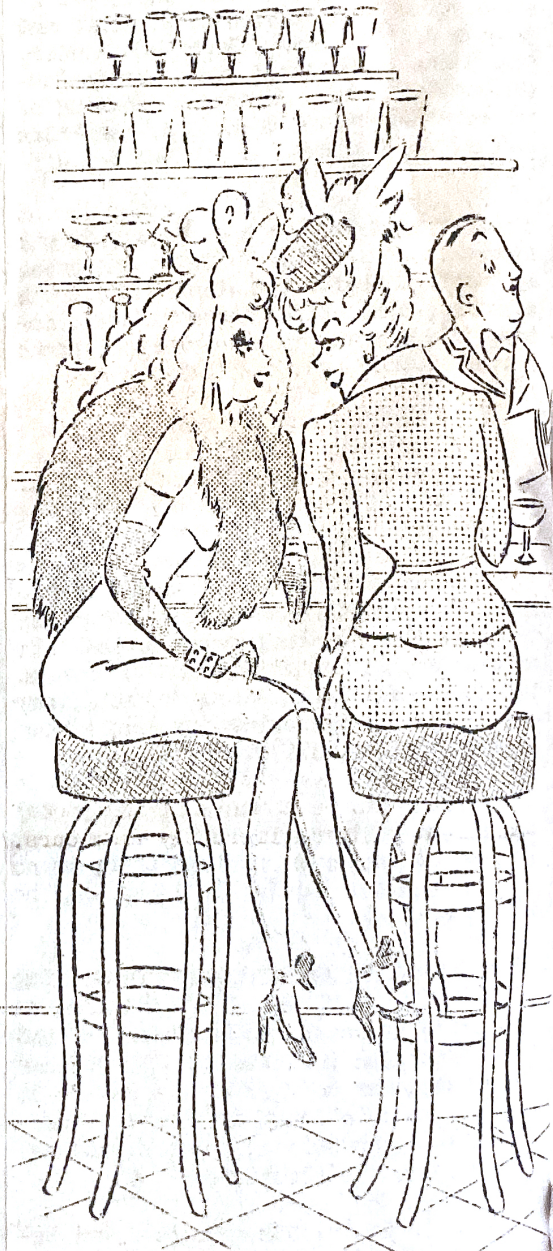

"American soldiers are requested please to be a little more careful in their choice of language, especially when natives are helping them unload ships and trucks, and when they are helping them in the erection of huts. American missionaries spent many years amongst us and taught us the words we should not use. Every day, however, American soldiers use these words, and the good your missionaries did in our midst is being undermined by your careless profanity."

BEES WHACKS

ERNIE WENDELL and JIM BARCLAY both have brothers in the 123rd Battalion which is serving somewhere in the Pacific and they have both written to say that the Invader has been reaching them regularly through the mails and almost all of their battalion gets a chance to read it.

CHARLES M. HEARTT likes to get packages from home and he has in the past received all sorts of goodies from the little woman. Just a few days ago he got a parcel and hurried over to his tent to open it. He wore a look of pleased expectancy as he undid the strings but the look soon changed to dismay.

His better half had sent him two nice tins of SPAM.

R.R. Kinsey who left the battalion at Camp Efford for Officer Training School several months ago is now at Cornell and he writes that he is doing fine in his academic work. His address is R.R. Kinsey, AS, Dormitory #7, NCTP, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

CARL ROBERTSON just missed meeting his brother whom he has not seen for nine years. Brother Orvil Robertson is in the US Army Air Corps and he came to Camp Efford just after Carl had left there to come to France. Better luck next time Robbie!

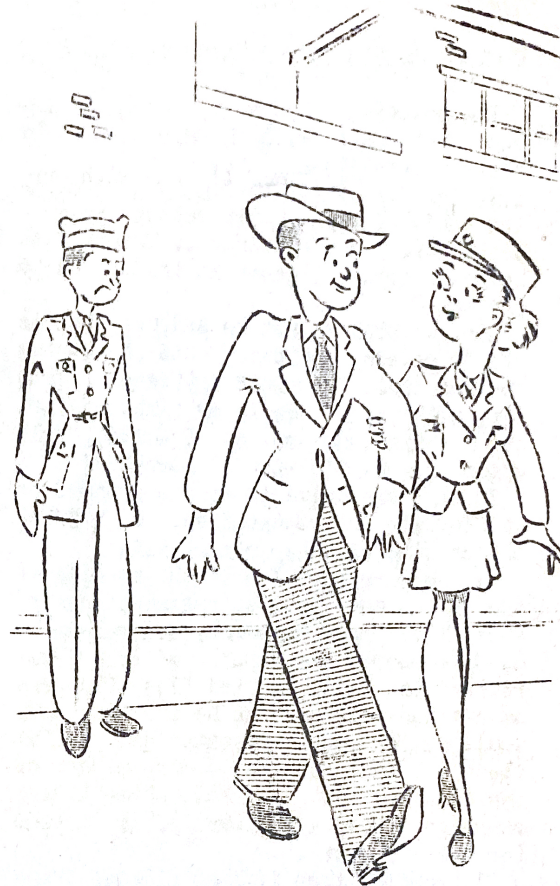

WILLIAM BOXBERGER procured a nice 5 tube radio for himself recently and he had it all figured out that he would have a good time during the coming long Winter evenings listening to the radio programs but when he got the thing hooked up he discovered that it was a German model and wired quite differently from ours. Besides, a tube went bad and there is no way of replacing it so it looks like he is out of luck.

LOU BOUTHOT perks his ears every time he hears the Seabee base at Quoddy in Maine mentioned. LOU comes from that part of the country and he says that duty at Quoddy would suit him fine.

MARTIN E. HENLEY is back on the job at the galley after recuperation from an appendicitis operation. He said the hospital was all right but he was disappointed when he found there were no nice female Navy nurses over there.

Everybody in the outfit enjoyed the home talent show last week and HANK MED-

VISITING OFFICERS APPROVE BATTALION CAMP

Recent visitors at the 146th Seabees' base in France were Captain Frank H. Lash, USN, senior chaplain for the U.S. Navy in the European Theater of Operations, and other officers.

Captain Lash has been in the Navy for upwards of a quarter of a century.

Captain Palmer, of Navy Medical Corps, commanding officer of the U.S. Navy hospital for this area, recently made an inspection of the camp at the invitation of Commander Gessner.

Captain Palmer commented favorably on the general appearance of the Seabees' camp.

GLEESON CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF TENT CITY

The political campaign season has opened this week with an announcement by "Fire Chief" Gleeson that he is a candidate for mayor of Tent City. Close on the heels of this announcement came a declaration from Frederic C. Murphy that he would oppose Gleeson in the mayoralty contest.

Gleeson states that he and only he, is the "people's candidate" and he states further that "the good citizens of Tent City will support me in my fight against the machinations of my Spammany Hall opponent, Mr. 'Gas-House' Murphy."

In an exclusive interview granted to an Invader representative, the Chief of our city fire department said:

"I am sure that I have the backing of the civic and veteran organizations of Tent City. Only yesterday General-Admiral-Commander Ernie Dupuis of the local Post of the Jelly Bellied Flag Flappers of America told me that he and his group would support me in my campaign. If I am elected I will see that every member of the Post will get a 3" red, white & blue campaign ribbon as a token of my esteem for their support.

"I promise that if I am elected there will be a bottle in every pocket and a whiskey faucet in every tent.

"There will be a new deal for the common citizen. My slogan in that respect will be, 'You too, can be a Chief.'

"I am planning to procure the Queen Mary to transport the citizens of our fair community on a thirty-day sight seeing tour of that great foreign country, that bulwark of democracy and jive, the United States of America. Many of our citizens were born there and have relatives still living there who may remember them. I want to go there myself after the campaign to purchase a new "delicate pump" for the city fire department.

"To the citizens of our city I say: 'A vote for "Honest Ed" Gleeson means an end to confusion. Vote early and vote often.'"

MURPHY OPPOSES FIRE CHIEF IN MAYOR FIGHT

Frederic C. Murphy of the city supply department lost no time in announcing that he would oppose city Fire Chief Gleeson in the coming mayoralty fight. Mr. Murphy was eating his noon-day meal of Spam at Spammany Hall restaurant when he was informed that Gleeson had launched his campaign. Without waiting to consume his Spam, Murphy commented, "Why, I know more about ballot stuffing than dat bum Gleeson. I yam goin' ta run for mayor on a clean-up ticket an' ya can put dat in yer paper an' say dat I sed it."

Murphy stated that, "da foist ting I'll do will be to hire a new fire chief when I go inta office. Dat guy Gleeson has been fire chief for a long time now and he has never yet been to a fire. De whole city could boin down an' he wouldn't know about it until the reporters come to write it up, an' den he'd want his mug in the paper."

The Spammany Hall candidate stated that his platform would be generally confused and he said that his campaign slogan would be, "You too, can be a fireman and wear high rubber boots-Boot! Vote for Murphy."

He said: "I advocate giving one German 88mm cannon to each veteran Seabee for mounting on the front lawn each week-end that mother-in-law is expected."

"I am in favor of each citizen being allowed two bottles instead of one but piping whiskey to each tent is an unsound political practice at the present time and a thought worthy only of the warped mind of my opponent.

"There will be bigger and better campaign ribbons and breakfast in bed for all the citizens of this community after I am elected.

"The reveille bugle will be donated to the Smithsonian Institute as a Navy relic and sacktime hours and pay allowances will be increased.

"A vote for Murphy is a good thing for Murphy."

It is not well known but Chief "Rudie" Gisselbrecht was a civilian flier before the war. He still is interested in aviation and the study of aerodynamics. He commented recently that aeronautical engineers are often baffled by the fact that some of the most streamlined figures offer the most resistance.

William P. Kelly was a quite precocious youngster, according to what some of his friends tell us. When he was still just a little bit of a shaver a nice old lady saw him out playing in the street one day and she said to him, "Little boy, why aren't you in school?" Young Kelly replied, "Hell, lady, I ain't but three years old."

A.J. Ammon tells us about the following little episode that happened in his tent. It seems that Harold Holden, of the Oklahoma Holdens, was watching a mate arrange the rolls of clothing in his seabag. Spying a gaily colored set of men's pajamas, Holden pointed and said, "What's them?"

"Pajamas," replied the mate.

"Pajamas," echoed Holden. "What are they for?"

"Why you wear them nights," his friend replied. "Want them?"

"Nothing doing," said Holden, "I don't go anywhere nights except to bed."

Otto Stone says he is so disgusted with the Seabees that when he gets home to the States again he is going up to the Seabee recruiting office and ask them to give him the old "Can Do" sales talk all over again.

Chief Jordan was in 1-A before he came into the Seabees and he was thinking seriously about getting reclassified. He was interested in a widow with four children and he went down to his local draft board to find out if he could get reclassified into 3-A if he married her. "Nothing doing," the board told him, "anyone brave enough to marry like that is just the kind of man we are looking for." So then Jack volunteered.

Over in Tent 77 the other night the air was so full of mosquitoes that sleep was impossible. One of the inmates suggested a way to get rid of them. As they were squatted all over the top of the tent, it would be a simple matter to light an old newspaper and burn them up. So a paper was lit and the plan put into action. It worked fairly well until an outside specimen, feeling the heat, turned around and blew out the paper.

EFINDT probably enjoyed it too. We don't know how he felt when he noticed that we forgot to mention his name in The Invader in connection with the show. HANK did a good piece of work as a one-man back-stage crew and the next time we will try to do better by him.

Lt. Frank Lafer and Clifford L. Meadows, of "the commando boys" of the 146th Seabees, are in the news again.

They returned recently from a reconnaissance trip to a seaport town in Brittany, which has been a pocket of German resistance since the rest of the Brittany peninsula fell to the American forces more than a month ago.

At their closest point to the enemy-held town, they were within range of the German 88-millimetre guns and at one time during their scouting expedition they were pinned down for a few hours by enemy fire.

LETTER FROM EFFORD: MEN OF 69TH MOVE IN!

By GERHARD B. NAESETH

Our forces have been augmented considerably, but indefinitely, by a good-sized group of men from the 69th Battalion.

Consisting of about one company, these men have taken over Huts 15 to 23, as well as another chiefs' hut, and causing the opening of two huts for cooks, bakers and mess cooks. Camp Efford now has an excellent galley crew, both in size and quality. Chief Commissary Steward Britten has the situation very well in hand.

Leon Berg is now ably assisted in the sick bay by CPhM Erickson, of the 69th. Trade down there is running about as usual. Willie Parker came back from the hospital all right, but not once has he been caught since on a bicycle - we can't quite understand that. Rumors that there were a few nurses over there at the hospital instead of some burly corpsmen have induced Sedgwick Watson, Johnny Longo, Ray Grucza, and others to pay extended visits there; but the rumors were false.

Remember our pigeon? Junior is no longer with us, having returned to the nurses' home. Junior was well taken care of while here. Chief contribution was a dandy gilded cage, constructed by Jimmy Clingenpeel - spacious, easy on the eyes, and conveniently provided with a removable floor for cleaning purposes.

What with these 69th fellows here, Slater is now running two shows a night; good shows, too. We had "Summer Storm," with Linda Darnell, last night - curvaceous, to say the least! Activity in the ping-pong parlor has picked up a lot, but the library is doing a slim business. Must be that the babes downtown are still attractive.

Harvey Asp seems to have had a lapse of memory. If not, will The Invader please explain why Joan, of the ATS, received a letter from Harvey, headed "Dear Pat"?

SHOULDER PATCH ORDERED ON SEABEE UNIFORM

By SEABEE NEWS SERVICE

Enlisted men in the Naval Construction Battalions soon will be privileged to wear a special Seabee shoulder patch, distinguishing the Righter Builders in the same way the Amphibious Corps recently has been honored.

The new emblems will be similar to the well known Seabee insignia: the battling bee on a blue background, with the word "Seabees" lettered underneath. The word will be lettered in solid white, instead of the present manner, however, and the patch will be surrounded by a solid white circle, in place of a gold rope. The white speed lines will be omitted. The diameter of the patch will be 2 3/4 ins.

The shoulder patch will be worn by all enlisted personnel attached to Seabee units. Information about how and where it may be obtained will be made available in the near future.

COMMANDER'S FATHER PASSES IN NEW ORLEANS

News was received recently by Commander Gessner of the death of his father, Dr. Hermann B. Gessner, at his home in New Orleans. Dr. Gessner died Aug. 31 at his residence. He was 72 years old, and had been a practicing physician in Louisiana for almost half a century.

During his long and useful life, Dr. Gessner attained an eminence in his profession which extended far beyond his community. A gifted surgeon, he received many honors of the medical profession and was the first doctor in the New Orleans area to repeat a difficult operation for aneurism devised by Dr. Rudolph Matas.

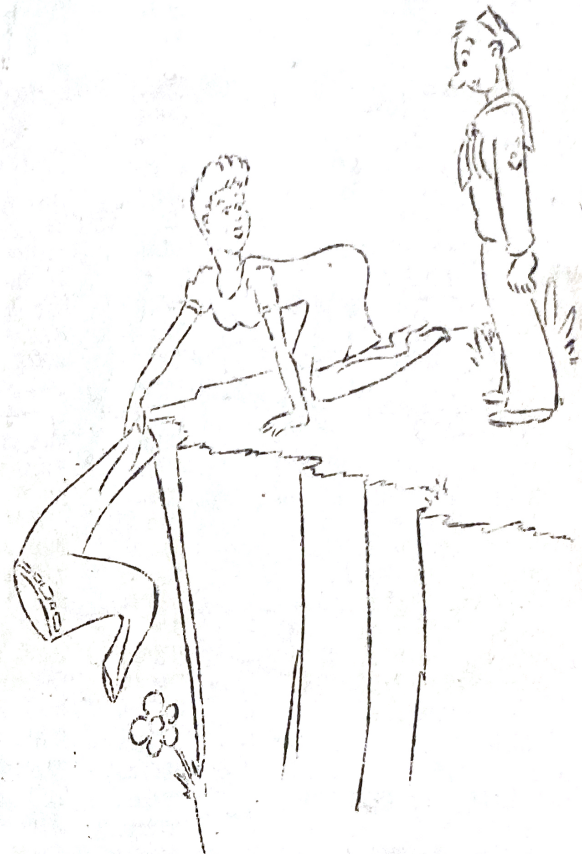

He was an acting assistant surgeon in the U.S. Army during the Spanish-American war and was subsequently identified with the U.S. Public Health Service. He was president of the Louisiana State Medical Society during the years 1930-31, and he was also a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of various southern and national medical societies.

Dr. Gessner was for many years professor of operative and clinical surgery at Tulane University, and helped found a dental school that became part of the university.

He is survived by his widow and three other children besides the Commander.

146TH SEABEES STILL UNBEATEN IN 16 GAMES

Still undefeated in 16 straight games, the 146th Seabees soft-ball team had its toughest struggle Saturday night, tied 0-0 in 10 innings by an Army team. The game was called on account of darkness.

The crew returned to its winning stride Sunday by whipping a Seabee regimental outfit 8 to 0. Thus it holds its record of never having been topped by any of its Army and Navy opponents in France.

The 146th batting order: Matlock, c; Cox, lf; Weichand, ss; Etherson, lb; Boxberger, 3b; Murray, cf; Latimer, sf; Hubbard, 2b; Carney, rf; Meadows, p.
